

European Schools Partnership Programme (Lifelong Learning Programme - Socrates Comenius)

Since 2008 our school has been taking part in the project "Let's get out of the drawers and watch tv." Schools from the Netherlands, Italy, Spain and Latvia are our partners. The project includes exchange of experience of our students through e-mails, visits, poster making and publishing in the Internet. The final product is going to be a film advertising our schools. The results of students' work are published on the project website:

Part of the project concerns the students' exchange and accomodation at foreign families.

Each school has its own puppet travelling to the cooperating countries and receiving souvenirs.
